(2) Where a landowner or tenant who is required to furnish a declaration under Section 5-A fails so to do, the prescribed authority may in respect of him obtain the information required to be shown in the declaration through such agency as it may deem fit. Such utilisation of any surplus area will not affect the right of the landowner to receive rent from the tenant so settled. (c) For the purpose of determining the surplus area of any person under this section any decree, or order of or authority, obtained after the commencement of this Act and having the effect of diminishing the area of such person could have been declared as his surplus area shall be ignored.} Comments Section IO-A and] gifts made by landowners which exceeded the permissible area having come by additional lands by inheritance are to be ignored or taken into account when computing the surplus area in their hands, having regard to S. 19-B read with S. IO-A. S. IO-A does not militate against this mandate or S. 19-B. S. IO-A(a) is wide in its terms and encompasses all surplus area, however, obtained under S. IO-A1 but, lands acquired by an heir by inheritance are saved in so far as dispositions of such lands are concerned, Although in the hands of the propositus, it is surplus land, if at the time it is not. [In their transfers will be affected by the interdict of S. 19-B. Where no conflict between S. IO-A and S. IO-LV State Of Haryana v. Sumpurau Singh, AIR 1975 SC 1952. Section added Act of and always deemed have with effect from the date of commencement of Punjab Act or Inserted by Punjab Act No 4 of 1955, section is) added effect from the date by Punjab Act No 1.1 of The Punjab Security Of Land Tenures Act, 1953 Section IO-A(C), 18--Other authority— Meaning Of --Includes Officer under Section IO-K Per majority —The Object Of S. IO-A(C) cannot be fulfilled unless the widest meaning were given to the expression "court or Other authority", "Other authority" is very other authority within or without the ACL. The Other authorities S. IO-A(c) include officer under S.

18. The plain meaning of S. IO-A(c) is that any order by any authority which shrinks the surplus area of the landlord is invalid to the extent laid down in the clause. State of Punjab v. Amar Singh, AIR 1974 SC 994. - [Per majority, Sarkaria, J. --The expression "transfer" is wide enough to cover transfers by operation of law unless expressly excluded. Special exclusions to save transfers by way of inheritance and compulsory land acquisition by State have been made which would have been supererogatory had involuntary transfers automatically gone out of the pale of S. IO-A. Hence S. IO-A (b) would apply to transfer by operation of law under S. IO-A. State of Punjab v. Amar Singh, AIR 1974 SC 994. S. a corollary to the goes against public policy, prescription of a statute or a mandatory direction to the Court to decide on its own certain foundational facts a court cannot operate de facto requirement so specified nor absolve the court from the duty. The resultant will be ineffective. Any authority, like the Collector enjoined to apply S. IO-AU,) and it may decline to act on a compromise which has ripened into an order if the agreement between the parties disposes of property in violation of a statutory mandate. Strictly speaking, collusive sales cannot affect the State which has the right to utilise surplus lands for resettling tenants. The public policy of S. IO-A cannot be frustrated by consent orders calculated to defeat the provision and without the statutory authority charged with the enquiry being satisfied about the bona fides and eligibility for the purchase. State of Punjab v. Amar Singh, AIR 1974 SC 994 [IO-B. Saving by inheritance not to apply after utilisation of surplus area.— succession has opened and the surplus area or any part thereof has been utilised under clause (a) of section IO-A, the saving specified in favour of any heir by inheritance, under clause (b) of that section shall not apply in respect of the area so utilised.] Comments Sections IO-A and IO-B--Process of utilisation of Surplus area --When complete--Held: While allotment of land is an initial stage in the process of utilisation of the "surplus area", it does not complete that process as it is necessary for allottee to obtain a certificate of allotment, take possession of the land within the period specified for the purpose, and to execute "qabuliyat" or "paua" in respect thereof as required by Rules 20-A to 20-C Of The Rules Of 1956. S. IO-A(b) has the effect of saving land comprised in the "surplus area", if it has been acquired by an heir by inheritance. So when the process of utilisation of the deceased's "surplus area" had not been completed by the time his heirs by inheritance made the application under S. IO-A(B) and IO-B to the authorities concerned, it was permissible for those authorities to re-examine the question whether there was any "surplus area" at all after the land had been inherited by his two heirs in equal shares so as to reduce the area of the holding of each one of them below the permissible area, Financial Commissioner v. Haryana State, Kala Deri, AIR 1980 SC 309. New section IO-B inserted with effect from the 15.4.1953. by Punjab Act 14 of 1953 The Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act, 1953 Save in proportion to a reduction in the 11. Tenant's right to water.— Tenancy, if any, a landowner shall not be compelled to curtail or terminate the supply of canal or well water enjoyed by a tenant immediately before the commencement of this Act, and a breach of this provision shall constitute a cognizable offence punishable with imprisonment which may extend to six months and shall be triable by a court not below the rank of a Second Class Magistrate. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887 (Act XVI of 1887). The rent payable by a tenant on any land held by him as such shall not exceed one-third of the crop of such land or the value thereof as determined in the prescribed manner. and where the customary rent is less than one-third, the maximum rent shall be such customary rent (2) In computing the maximum rent payable by a tenant, such portion of the rent, if any, as represents consideration for services or facilities provided by the landowner in relation to land shall not be taken into account. 13.
